Rose

001 Bandol Rosé, Domaine Tempier, Bandol, France, 2008.....58.00

If ever were made a "Winter Rosé", this wine is certainly it. Tempier offers an earthy, dense rosé with the texture of a red wine. A powerful style of rosé that matches well with grilled meats and hearty fish courses. Not a carefree quaffing wine. Red berries, peach skin, smoky minerals and dried lavender on the nose, picks up peppery spices with air, which carry onto the palate and add nerve and zest to the sweet raspberry and cherry flavors, with excellent finishing grip and chewy, unflagging persistence. This wine has the depth and texture.

White

003 Blend No. 1, "Greendale White", Hudson Wine Farms, NY 200840.00

Juicy, racy and mineral driven - with a charming and bright appeal. This is the debut release from a new project developed by Billy Rattner, Wine Director for the Xaviar's Restaurant Group [and in the interest of full disclosure, the one who is typing this tasting note!] The Wine is composed of 80% Chardonnay from the Greendale Farm in Columbia County, 15% Traminette, and 5% Riesling from the Finger Lakes.

Notes of Meyer Lemon, candied orange, and melon open into a lovely depth of texture with a bracing cool-climate acidity lending a brisk, long finish.

131 Montlouis, "Clos Habert", [Demi-Sec] Francois Chidane, 200645.00

A lovely and lacey mineral gem of a wine from the tiny Appellation of Montlouis in the Loire Valley. Francois Chidane makes this wine organically from the single vineyard, Clos Habert, comprised of 60+ year old vines. Meticulous care in the vineyard and a clear non-interventionist approach in the cellar make for a beautiful glass of truth at the table. This wine shows an off-dry hint weaving through the persimmon, apricot, peach and ginger notes, all followed by a stylish, lengthy finish with rich flavors, but an elegant mouthfeel.

004 Viognier/Roussanne, Ramian Estate, Napa Valley, 200753.00

Beautifully aromatic and stunningly fruited, this classic Rhone-inspired blend is not all about the gorgeous peach, apricot and tropical citrus that stun the palate with lush love - no that is just the opening act. Act II is a richly-textured mouthfeel with structured acidity and a rich mineral vein that cleaves away any trace of excess. The wine brings down the house in Act III with an enveloping balance that folds the wild fruit with a classic complexity. Brian Graham is a passionate and dedicated winemaker who works with small vineyards to craft even smaller lots of fabulous wine.

129 Riesling, Schoffit, "Clos St.-Theobald", Grand Cru, Alsace, France 2005 88.00

Ripe aromas of butter, lychee and wet stone, and apricot, complicated by earthy and salty nuances. Sweet, dense and concentrated but given shape by firm, juicy acidity. At once full and lively, with a powerful mineral underpinning. There's something almost gewurztraminer-like in the wine's spicy, savory and saline elements, yet this comes across as quite elegant. A soil-driven, very deep Riesling with a very long finish.

Red

317 Merlot, Zanut Estate, Brda-Collio, Slovenia, 200548.00

Wow is this a fabulous discovery. When Peter and I tasted the "Reserve" bottling of this wine, our first thoughts were— POMEROL!!!..maybe even Petrus! While we don't promise such exalted levels of power, extraction and elegance, this Merlot from Slovenia offers wildly juicy plum and black cherry with a dense but compact tannic structure. "Brda" is the name of the growing region that is the eastern patch of the land the Italians call the "Collio". I can guarantee that if this wine was grown and made a quarter-mile to the west, and therefore was an boutique wine made in miniscule quantities from ITALY, it would certainly be more than twice the price it is now.

583 "Amauta", Cab/Malbec/Syrah, El Porvenir de los Andes, Salta, Argentina, 2005 57.00

What can we say but, "WOW", this is a bowl of wine from way high in the Andes from the remote and ancient Salta Province. Super-old vineyards dot the arid landscape, giving rise to small-berried, gnarly vines. This wine is a rather modern spin on a classic Bordeaux-style blend with the addition of the spicy and meaty Syrah. Dense and punchy but with great balance. "Amauta" might translate to "A MOUTH-FULL" - not really, but it sure tastes like it!

“Champagne - the great civilizer” - Tallyrand

the arrival of a friend;
one's present or future thirst;
the excellence of a wine;
or any other reason.*

he will eat with effort and be little better for it at first.
Give him a glass of wine or brandy, and immediately
he feels better- you see him come to life again before you.
